2008 LEGISLATIVE WRAP-UP

THE MORE THINGS CHANGE THE MORE THINGS STAY THE SAME

Two-thousand-and-eight was a tumultuous year for the New York State Capital. From the national scandal that abruptly ended Eliot Spitzer's tenure as Governor to the retirement of long-time Senate Majority Leader Joseph Bruno, two of Albany's "three men in a room" made dramatic exits this year.

Governor David Paterson and Senate Majority Leader Dean Skelos stepped out from behind the curtain to join Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver in the spotlight.

The State Senate is where New Yorkers are now focusing their attention, as the margin between the Republican majority and Democratic minority has dropped to 31-29. A single seat changing hands could put the Senate into a tie, with no Lieutenant Governor in place to break it.

As the margin of control narrows in the Senate, the environment has become a higher priority.

Lawmakers' scores in our last few green scorecards attest to this trend.

In 2006, the Senate Democrats' average score was 25 points higher than that of their Republican counterparts. This year, the gap narrowed to 10 points. The historic green gap is closing thanks to the passage of several big-ticket environmental measures, including priority Super Bills. In the past two years the Senate has passed three of these measures, as well as two other "three-tree" bills, the only big-ticket environmental legislation passed since 2003.

This year, the Senate and Assembly passed comprehensive net-metering reforms, policies that will credit consumers for the clean energy they produce themselves, and a late addition to the environmental community's Super Bill list. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Basin Water Resources Compact, a three-tree bill we've supported for the past three years, was ratified and signed by the Governor early in the Legislative Session.

Additional legislative victories in 2008 include green residential building grants and tax credits for solar energy installations in New York City.

The other notable achievement is a fix for tax credits under the Brownfield Cleanup Program; efforts to reform the tax credits were spearheaded by the Governor based on the projected hit to the state treasury. The program fix will incentivize cleaner cleanups and limit outlays of state cash for projects that probably would have been redeveloped without the added incentive.

The Road Ahead

In the months and years ahead, it's hard to predict where the environment will rank on the agendas of Albany's new leaders. Speaker Silver and the Assembly have consistently supported most pro-environment measures.

With storm clouds gathering for New York State finances, the Paterson Administration may head down the path taken by Governor George Pataki—and well-intended cost cutting could undermine the Department of Environmental Conservation's ability to protect our air, land and water.

Or the Governor may look more closely at the big picture and see how the issues of climate change, energy policy and environmental protection can help guide the state's economic development.

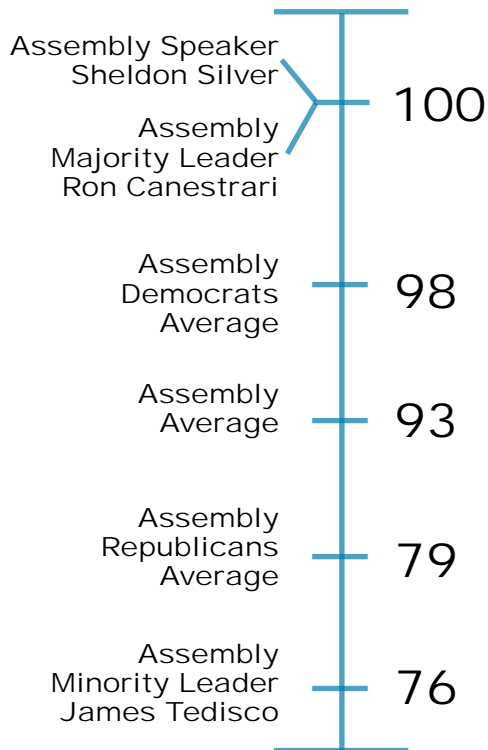

Given the projected impacts of rising seas for Long Island, Senate Majority Leader Skelos could choose to elevate reducing climate pollution to the New York State Senate's priority list.

Two-thousand-and-eight finds state lawmakers at a critical crossroads, and the direction that New York State takes from here is now squarely in the hands of the voters.

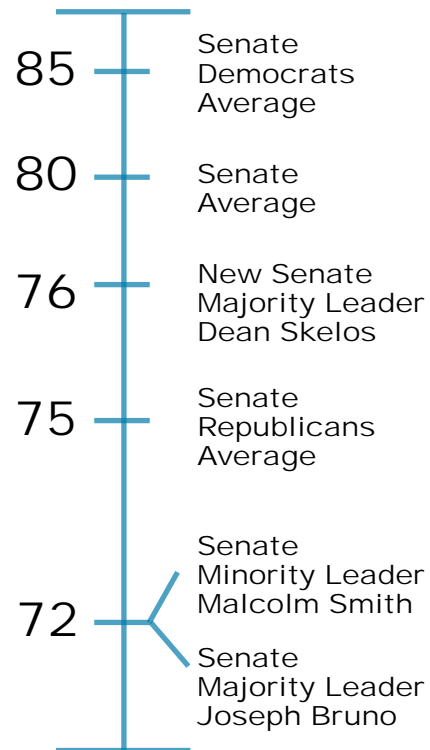

BY THE NUMBERS

A QUICK LOOK AT NYS LAWMAKERS' ENVIRONMENTAL SCORES

NYS Assembly

NYS Senate

2008 Highlights

- NYS Assembly passes all four environmental Super Bills.
- Governor squashes Broadwater liquefied natural gas terminal proposed for the Long Island Sound.
- Comprehensive climate cap bill passes Assembly and collects 33 Senate sponsors, including new Majority Leader Skelos.
- State doubles investment in energy efficiency; the money will help NYS reach "15 by 15" goal to reduce electricity use.
- Governor and Assembly Speaker Silver put brakes on proposed Gas Tax Holiday.

2008 Lowlights

- NYC's congestion pricing plan to reduce pollution and traffic stalls in Albany. Neither Assembly nor Senate publicly debate the plan.
- State budget process returns to politics as usual with closed-door meetings and little or no public participation. August's "special economic session" also behind closed doors.
- State sweeps $125 million from Environmental Protection Fund for general budget relief.
- Governor supports Jamestown "clean coal" project. While funding for bigger and dirtier Tonawanda project is denied, state commits $6 million to unnecessary Jamestown plant, if it meets certain conditions.

LEGISLATOR OF THE YEAR

KEVIN CAHILL
(D-Kingston)

Assemblyman Kevin Cahill was named Chair of the Assembly's Energy Committee early in the 2008 New York State Legislative Session. He acted quickly to steer critical clean energy legislation through this committee, including the net metering reform package that is the only environmental Super Bill to become law this year.

Net metering is the policy that credits consumers for the clean energy they generate. An updated policy will save consumers money, reduce stress on our aging transmission lines, and protect New Yorkers from the pollution generated by traditional power plants.

In 2008 the Assemblyman introduced the green residential building grant program. This measure should be signed into law before the year is out. He also introduced legislation to support a more sustainable energy future for New York, including an energy efficient building codes bill and a measure to guide the state's energy planning.

Assemblyman Cahill has supported each and every one of the environmental community's priority Super Bills and consistently championed initiatives to protect the health of our natural resources. Since 2004, the Assemblyman has received nothing but top marks in our annual green scorecard.

EPL/Environmental Advocates is proud to name Kevin Cahill as our 2008 Legislator of the Year.

"Energy is at the core of many of the key issues our society is facing, be it the economy, public health, air quality, environmental justice or climate change. To meet these challenges we must focus New York's energy policies on conservation, efficiency, renewable generation, tougher emissions standards and smart, sustainable development.

I am proud to be EPL's 'Legislator of the Year' and equally proud of my colleagues in the New York State Legislature for their commitment to a safe, clean and sustainable energy policy for New York."

HONORABLE MENTIONS

Assemblyman Bob Sweeney (D-Lindenhurst)

As Chair of the Assembly's Environmental Conservation Committee, Bob Sweeney ably guided many environmentally beneficial measures through this committee. Last year's "Legislator of the Year," Bob again helped secure Assembly passage of three of the green community's Super Bills, as well as priority legislation such as the Great Lakes Compact and Brownfield Tax Credit Reform. Both of these bills were signed into law this year.

Senator Thomas Morahan (R-Nanuet)

Senator Morahan is to be commended for his strong support of the Greenhouse Gas Pollution Control Act. This Super Bill would reduce state-wide climate pollution 80 percent by 2050. The Senator sponsored this measure and then rallied many of his Senate majority colleagues to co-sponsor the bill, which could be voted on prior to Election Day.

Senator George Maziarz (R-Wheatfield)

After becoming Chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, Senator Maziarz was instrumental in advancing net metering reform legislation. He has also long pushed for passage of the Great Lakes Compact. Thanks in part to his efforts, both the Great Lakes Compact and legislation to update New York's net metering laws passed the Senate in 2008.

Senator Antoine Thompson (D-Buffalo)

In his first year as the ranking Democrat on the Senate Environmental Conservation Committee, Senator Thompson elevated several critical issues, including restructuring tax credits under the state's Brownfield Cleanup Program and ensuring that incentives for development are consistent with community plans. The Senator also rallied Super Bill supporters in his House.

HOW LAWMAKERS' SCORES ARE CALCULATED

To calculate legislators' scores, EPL/Environmental Advocates uses ratings developed by our sister organization, Environmental Advocates of New York.

Legislators earn between 1 and 3 points respectively for votes in support of bills rated by Environmental Advocates as 1, 2 or 3 "tree" bills. Tree-rated bills are those that will benefit New York's environment. Legislators earn between 1 and 3 points for votes against bills that were given a rating of 1, 2 or 3 "smokestacks." Smokestack-rated bills are those that will harm the environment.

The Assembly voted on all four of the Super Bills; the Senate voted on one of the four.

Legislators earn points for supporting Super Bills as follows:

Co-sponsoring: Lawmakers receive half-credit (1.5 points of a 3-tree bill) for Super Bills they sponsored or co-sponsored. If a Super Bill is voted on, the vote is counted in the score, but credit is not given for co-sponsorship. Members of the minority party who request to be added as co-sponsors also receive co-sponsorship credit.

Votes on motions to petition: Votes on motions to petition a Super Bill out of committee are counted as regular votes on the bill. Legislators voting in favor of a motion to petition a Super Bill out of committee receive 3 points. If the bill itself is voted on, that floor vote counts, rather than support for the motion to petition.

Becoming law: If a Super Bill is passed by both houses and signed into law, all legislators who vote for it receive 3 points plus 2 bonus points. This year one Super Bill was signed into law (Net Metering Reforms). As such, members who voted for this bill receive 2 bonus points, resulting in some lawmakers with scores greater than 100 percent.

Notes:

1. The Climate Change Solutions Program Act & Fund, two complementary bills, is scored as one bill in the scorecard. Three members of the Assembly, Aileen Gunther, Peter Lopez and Annie Rabbit, voted in favor of one bill and against the other. These legislators received an "N" to reflect this inconsistency in the scorecard.
2. Assemblyman Darrel Aubertine was elected in special election to the State Senate during the Legislative Session. Due to his limited time in the Assembly, Aubertine's Senate score is a better measure of his voting record.

How to contact your lawmakers

New York State lawmakers are in regular session every year from January through June. While they are scheduled to meet for six months, in recent years budget problems have led to lengthier sessions and additional special sessions. Write your legislators: New York State Assembly, Albany, NY 12248, or New York State Senate, Albany, NY 12247. Call the Assembly at (518) 455-4100 and the Senate at (518) 455-2800.
